Celestial follows a crew of students onboard the schooner S.S.V Tabor Boy as they compete in the 2019 Marion to Bermuda Race navigating exclusively with celestial navigation. Directed and produced by Jack Gordon, the film gives an intimate look at life onboard the vessel and the intricacies of navigating celestially. (30 min)
Electronics have permeated into every aspect of modern society, making us reliant on them for basic everyday tasks like communication and research. In the sport of offshore sailing, where the night sky has been used to navigate for thousands of years, most people would be hopeless without their GPS. Today, few people have had the opportunity to learn how to navigate using celestial bodies. (America's Boating Club is one of the very few organization that continues to give celestial navigation courses.)

Jack Gordon will be available for Q and A after the film. He is a documentary filmmaker from Massachusetts and a student at the University of California, Berkeley. He graduated from Tabor Academy in 2017, where he was introduced to the art of celestial navigation. In addition to producing documentaries, he has created a number of videos and films for major national companies, organizations, bands, and sports teams.

NOTE: Many of Greenwich's members have taken one or both of America's Boating Club's celestial navigation courses. They can be recognized by the grades after their names: JN for Junior Navigator which covers taking sextant sights of the sun; N for Navigator covering sextant sights of stars; SN for Senior Navigator denoting graduating from both courses plus other advanced classes.
